ABSTRACT

This curriculum guide contains the materials required to teach 16 workplace basic skills courses for bank employees. The guide begins with an overview of the project during which the courses were developed through a partnership between First Chicago/NBD and a training provider and used to provide training to 1,699 participants. Presented next is a curriculum overview that explains how the 16 competency-based courses were developed to teach actual workplace tasks in the context of the work environment by using work-related instructional materials. The remainder of the document consists of course overviews and curriculum excerpts for the courses, which range in length from 1 to 10.5 hours and cover the following topics: listing from the written amount; new hire reading; new hire math; problem solving and decision making; writing log entries; business writing; performance appraisal writing; reading outlines for success; charts and tables; math for check filing; automated teller machine balancing; place value; telephone usage, mail investigation, and mail sorting; unlocking lockboxes; participating in the performance management process; and evaluating employees' performance. The following are provided for each course: lesson plan listing the course's audience, goal, and competencies taught; student handout, learning activities, and assessment instrument. (MN)

Project Overview

First Chicago/NBD (FCNBD) was awarded a three year grant from the U.S. Department of Education in 1995. FCNBD created a partnership with the Workplace Education Division of The Center – Resources for Education to design and implement a basic skills training program. The major activities of this project were to analyze the basic skill needs of the nonexempt workforce, develop customized assessments and curriculum, and provide training.

The project operated from November 1, 1995 through April 30, 1998. During that time the following services were provided:

Needs Analysis

Conducted basic skills needs analyses for Vault Services, Help Desk, Demand Deposit Accounts, Research and Adjustments, Money Transfers, Disbursement Services, and the Corporate Mail Center.

Curriculum

Developed training materials specific to the basic skill requirements at FCNBD. The titles are:

Training:

Provided courses ranging from eight to thirty-six hours. Unde this grant, The Center:

- Offered 197 courses
- Provided 1,612 training hours with a total of 2,106 class slots
- Trained 1,699 participants.

Curriculum Overview

The goal of the customized curriculum development and training was to enhance the non-exempt employees' basic skills which would result in improved job performance and increased productivity. With this goal in mind, the curriculum developers followed these principles as they designed the curriculum:

1: The curriculum outcomes and content should be based on the results of basic skills needs analyses.

Needs analysis (also called literacy audits) identified the required level of basic skills for certain job tasks. This analysis was accomplished by: 1) interviewing worker, supervisors, and managers to determine their perception of the skills needed; 2) observing the workers perform the job; listing the tasks; recording each time the worker reads, writes or performs math; and noting the setting and people with whom the worker interacts; and 3) collecting and analyzing all job-related materials – memos, manuals, signs, forms, etc. and 4) and summarizing the needed skills. This summary of skills became the curriculum content and course outcomes.

2: The curriculum should use a competency-based approach.

Competency-based education (CBE) in a workplace context is a performance-based process leading to a demonstrated mastery of basic skills necessary for the individual to function proficiently in the workplace. The instructional content focuses on the learning and applying of basic skills to the workplace as determined by an assessment of the learner's needs, goals, and abilities. A competency-based approach offers:

- a framework for instruction that is consistent with accepted curriculum development practices and adult learning theory, which states that learning is more rapid when instruction is relevant and immediately applicable to the learner's daily life,
- 2) a built-in means of customized pre and post evaluation, and
- 3) a basis for program accountability.

First Chicago/NBD, 1998. Workplace Education Division of The Center – Resources for Education (847) 803-3535

3: The curriculum should use a functional context.

The functional-context curriculum ensures that all skills are taught in the context of the work environment, and the success of the learning is demonstrated by the application of those skills in the workplace.

4: The curriculum should be customized and incorporate work-related instructional materials.

The curriculum for each department was customized to incorporate the actual workplace materials. It is important to note that many of these workplace materials contained sensitive, confidential information and were deemed proprietary in nature. This, in turn, affected potential for dissemination of materials outside the training room.

5: Instructional materials and activities should mirror the workplace tasks.

The "working style" of the workplace was primarily kinesthetic in that workers spent most of their work time sorting, filing, referencing and manipulating materials such as checks, outlines, mail, and support materials. Therefore, many of the instructional materials were manipulatives instead of pen-and-paper activities. For example, arranging names by alphabetical order was practiced by sorting a collection of envelopes rather than a written worksheet in which learners would sequence a list of names by writing "1," "2," etc., for the alphabetical order.

The curriculum development process was a team approach involving both Center and FCNBD staff, such as the Project Director, department supervisors/managers, and trainers. Courses were offered repeatedly to a large number of workers, therefore, it was critical that the curriculum be valid, instructionally sound, and consistent. The development steps had a built-in means for "checks and balances" in that there were various checkpoints in which all staff evaluated the materials for accuracy of content as well as sound adult educational principles.

The curriculum development phases are outlined on the next page.

Course Overviews and Curriculum Excerpts

The purpose of this section is to provide the user with course outcomes, a syllabus, and sample materials which can be used to develop similar courses for other financial institutions.

It is important to note that the curriculum was based on actual workplace documents which contain confidential and proprietary information. Therefore, it is impossible to disseminate the complete curriculum. The samples contained in this section should prove useful as templates for users to develop their own functional context curriculum specific to the needs of other financial institutions.

Help Desk Curriculum Pre-Assessment

There are several parts to this assessment. Each part is separate and has its own instructions. Read your instructions carefully before you complete each part of the assessment.

Part One: Analyis of Bank Documents

Use the section of the training manual on the attached page entitled "Schedule of Fees" to answer the questions that follow.

- 1. How much will the bank charge a customer to recalculate interest?
- 2. What fee will you be charged to have your cancelled checks mailed to you if your First Account Plus average daily account balance is $1,987.95?
- 3. Where should you look to find monthly fees?
- 4. How will an originating bank's fees be paid on a check drawn on a foreign bank?
- 5. Your ATM has a Cash Station Logo and you use it at a bank not owned and operated by a First Chicago or American National Bank. How much will you be charged to make a Balance Inquiry?
- 6. You write five checks per month on your First Money Market account per statement period. How much will you be charged for that privilege?

Part Two: Identify Appropriate Level of Detail:

Read the following passage from the "Action" section taken from the Help Desk log carefully. Then, in the space provided, rewrite the passage to include the level of detail you feel is appropriate. Use Standard English punctuation and grammar.

THEY PRESS THE APPLICATION ENTRY AND THE Y GET THE HOUR GLASS HOLD HER A PERIOD OF TIME THEN THE ARROW COMES BACK. 7394 Martin Avenue Naperville, Illinois 60540 April 6, 1995

Ms. Judith Robicheaux Bank Manager First Chicago Bank 2000 Washington Street Naperville, Illinois 60540

Dear Ms. Robicheaux:

During my five years as a customer at your bank, I have had no complaint, until today. The problem is that my check order was not processed correctly, and I would like this problem rectified as soon as possible.

Recently I called the bank to say that I would be moving soon, so my new checks would have my new address on them. However, my new checks were sent to my old address and still have an incorrect address on them. Also, I have already been billed for the incorrect checks.

Can you offer me any assistance in straightening out this situation? I do not want to pay for unsatisfactory merchandise, and I need my new checks.

I appreciate the time you are taking to review my complaint. During the day I can be reached at 477-3321 from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Thank you for your assistance.

Yours Truly,

Paula Clarke

FIRST CHICAGO CORPORATION

EFFECTIVE VS. INEFFECTIVE PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

An effective performance objective is clear, to the point, objective, tied closely to the actual job (not an outdated job description), and is written in such a way that it will be possible to gather data to support why the person did or did not meet the objective. Most performance objectives begin with action verbs.

Here is an example of an effective performance objective:

Met all deadlines on regular routes, securing approvals and meeting time frames (early or on time).

Write why yo	ou think it's effe	ective:
			100	 	_

Be careful to focus more on behaviors than outcomes otherwise interaction skills, planning, etc. are likely to be ignored. Don't just equate job performance with task performance because employees don't spend all their time on tasks. Although you want to write explicit standards and goals, you don't want to be confined by them. It is all too tempting to work to meet those standards and ignore everything that is not covered in the standard.

I. Directions: With a partner or small group, change the following ineffective performance objectives to effective ones. Briefly state what is ineffective about the original objectives.

Examples:

Ineffective	Effective	Analysis
• Is nice to be around.	Demonstrates respect and consideration for others.	Too subjective. What's considered " nice to be around?"
Completes assignments quickly.	Sends copies of statements within 24 hours of the claims ID date.	Too vague. How quickly? Which assignments?

Effective Objectives

Now you try...

Ineffective Objectives

a) Does a good job with requirements.	·
b) Interacts well with customers.
c) Every morning, at 8:00 am, calls the messenger unit (999-9999) and makes sure that all items have been delivered to all the various departments at the times they were supposed to be delivered and to the proper locations. Calls back at the end of the day to check again. Fills out all the proper paperwork if there's a problem.

Course Overview:

Place Value

Audience:

New hires in Central Operations

Goal:

To review place value, reading large numbers, and writing numbers as written amounts

Contact Hours:

1 hour

Schedule:

1 hour a session for 1 session

Competencies:

At the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- 1. Read large numbers quickly.
- 2. Write numbers as written amounts.

WRITTEN NUMBERS: Write numbers as written amounts

When you write numbers as written amounts:

• Write numbers from 21 to 99 with a hyphen or a dash (-) between the tens and the ones place.

Examples: Number Written amount thirty-six

48,000 forty-eight thousand

Put a comma after the words "billion," "million," and "thousand."
 Examples:

Number
1,045 one thousand, forty-five
2,461,802 two million, four hundred sixty-one thousand, eight hundred two 3,254,140,126 three billion, two hundred fifty-four million, one hundred forty thousand, one hundred twenty-six

Do not use the word "and" in whole numbers.

Examples:

Number Correct Incorrect
257 two hundred fifty-seven
1,900 one thousand nine hundred one thousand and nine hundred

When you write dollars and cents as written amounts:

• Write cents as a fraction of a dollar. The denominator (bottom number) is always 100 because there are 100 cents in a dollar.

Examples: Write 25 cents as 25/100 dollars.

Write no cents as 00/100 dollars.

• Use the word "and" for the decimal point.

Examples:

Number Written amount

$983.75 nine hundred eighty-three and 75/100 dollars

$1,349.00 one thousand, three hundred forty-nine and 00/100 dollars

Conducting Feedback Sessions

TIPS for conducting feedback sessions:

- ⇒ Discuss areas that are "Outstanding."
- ⇒ Discuss reasons for variations between the employee's and your evaluation.
- ⇒ Discuss areas that "Need Development" and plans for corrective action. Review the standards or objectives that apply with the employee.
- ⇒ Discuss personal development for the employee.
- ⇒ Summarize what you discussed.
- ⇒ Ask for final comments or questions from the employee.
- ⇒ Thank the employee for participating.
- ⇒ Review future plans.

TIPS for communicating with employees:

Don't say:

- How could you do that?
- Here's what you need to do.
- This is the way we've always done it.
- This is the way to do it.

Do say:

- Can you explain what caused the problem?
- What do you suggest we do?
- We've always done it this way, but I'd like to hear your ideas for improvement.
- This is the best idea I could come up with. Do you have any ideas?

Conducting Feedback Sessions

Directions: Act out the following role play and discuss the interaction between the manager and the employee.

Manager Come on in Lee. Have a seat. Last month some ATM envelopes came through your hands with validation lines that weren't clear, and you didn't tell anyone. How could you be so careless?

Lee Well, I...

Manager And, you need to talk up more in team meetings.

Lee OK.

Manager I'm going to sign you up for a communication class. Anything else?

Lee I guess not.
